Student Evaluation of Teaching

All faculty with instructional assignments are expected to receive student evaluations for all courses with enrollment of more than ten students. These evaluations include both quantitative responses to specific questions and written comments. Copies of the quantitative summary sheets for each course and any signed written comments are placed in the academic unit's personnel file for the faculty member. These materials are also included in promotion and/or tenure files and are carefully reviewed at the department, school, and college levels in the process of reviews for promotion and/or tenure. No unsigned written comments are retained by the academic unit or referred to in the course of a review for promotion and/or tenure, though they are provided to the faculty member.

ONLINE COURSE EVALUATIONS

The University of Oregon uses an online course evaluation system to collect student evaluations of courses and instructors. The online course evaluation system, available through DuckWeb \(https://duckweb.uoregon.edu\), <https://duckweb.uoregon.edu> may be used by students completing evaluations, faculty accessing reports, and
